

Sunday, April 4, 2021
Summary of Encountering the Risen King
John 20:1-18
Wayne Shelton

Because there is a God who has promised to guide history not to an end but to a new beginning, to a world in which finally death and evil are completely destroyed and justice and peace reign supreme, the sign of which is the resurrection, there is hope. Easter reminds the world that Jesus was bodily resurrected from the dead, and that we can be spiritually resurrected and reborn. 'This is because the resurrection of Christ brings the future power of God – that will someday heal and renew the entire world – into our lives now. Christians have an irrepressible hope, a hope for our lives and our society that we can participate in the fulness of paradise yet to come.'

Redeemer
Presbyterian